PRESENTER'S BIO

Matt Doody is a meteorologist at the National Weather Service Office in Taunton, Massachusetts. He was born and raised in Caribou, Maine. He credits his love for weather to his grandmother, who, at their family camp used to stay up late at night and watch thunderstorms with him.

Matt went to Caribou High School in Caribou, and attended college at the University at Albany in Albany, New York. At the University at Albany, he earned his undergraduate degree in Atmospheric Science and went on to earn his M.S. in Atmospheric Science under Drs. Lance Bosart and Daniel Keyser. His thesis focused on climatology of strong anticyclones globally.

Matt began his career in meteorology when he volunteered as a student intern at both the Albany, New York and Caribou, Maine National Weather Service offices, and started his career with the National Weather Service as a Meteorologist Intern at the office in Caribou. He joined the team in Taunton, Massachusetts in January of 2011. Matt lives in Rhode Island.
